

FAQ LIST FOR SANTA FE RAILYARD VISITORS

What is there to do at the Railyard?

The Railyard offers diverse restaurants (Flying Star Cafe, 2nd St. Brewery, Station Coffee and Junction), the REI Sports store, women's clothing, gift and antique stores and numerous art galleries which host the Railyard Art District's monthly last Friday Art Walk. The Farmers Market is open Tuesday and Saturday mornings and Thursday afternoons (Saturdays only during the winter). The 10 acre park is home to the Artists Market on Saturdays and includes a wonderful children's play area and fascinating gardens. Go to www.railyardsantafe.com for a complete tenant directory, event calendar (including music and movies in the Park and Plaza, market schedules, all gallery offerings and other special events) detailed driving directions, rail, shuttle and parking information. You may print the Railyard map from our website home page.

What will I find within walking distance of the Railyard?

The Sanbusco Market with numerous unique shops and restaurants is to the west of the Depot and tracks. The Railyard is bordered by the historic Guadalupe District with many charming clothing and curio shops, and restaurants with a wide variety of food, music and nightlife. Heading north on Guadalupe St., you'll find the historic Santuario de Guadalupe, and it's only 3 more blocks across the river and right down San Francisco Street to the historic Downtown Plaza. The Roundhouse, the State of New Mexico's state capitol building, is 5 blocks east of the Railyard via Montezuma. You can spend the entire day in the Railyard area or explore as you walk to the Downtown area, then take the shuttle back.

Are there restrooms nearby?

There are restrooms inside the Santa Fe Depot at the Railyard Visitor Center, along with maps and guides to local attractions as well as staff to answer your questions. (Open M-F 8:30-5:30 and Saturday 10:30-6:30) Public restrooms are provided in the Railyard Park, Sanbusco Center, and in many of the surrounding shops and restaurants you visit.
